Imagine a place...

- where 1,000 people die daily from starvation and war.
- where mothers must choose which child to feed, while others go hungry.
- where the second-highest number of malaria cases and deaths are found globally.
- where the country is considered one of the deadliest humanitarian crisis since World War II.

Feed, Nurture, & Heal

The Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC) faces significant challenges with waterborne diseases, particularly cholera and typhoid fever due to limited access to clean water and sanitation.

We drill freshwater wells in remote villages that experience high death levels, especially in children.

The DRC has the world's largest hunger crisis in absolute numbers, with 28 million people experiencing acute food insecurity.

We provide nutrition programs for both children and the elderly.

Our medical center is staffed with trained doctors and nurses providing premier care with medical equipment supplied by our donors.

There is such a place...

The Democratic Republic of Congo
